

Experience - Interior Design

Independent Living Centre of Waterloo Region
Head Office Interior Design
Project Management

Working with John MacDonald Architect inc. in Kitchener Ontario, Paul Blaser was the Project Lead and Designer for the Interior Design, Documentation and Project Management of a new head office location and permanent home for the Independent Living Centre.

Paul led an integrated design process, incorporating the landlord, senior staff, community stakeholders and ILCWR consumers into the Project Team. The result is a space that has become a hub in the community, bringing together service providers, disability advocates, community partners, people with disabilities and the public for events and daily interactions.

The project was given the Good Design is Good Business Award of Excellence by the Ontario Architects Association.
